The United States of America

1. The Birth of the word “America”
2. Colonial History (1575-1700; Video)
3. Name of the 13 Colonies before the Independent War.
4. Contemporary America
5. if possible (Declaration of Independence)

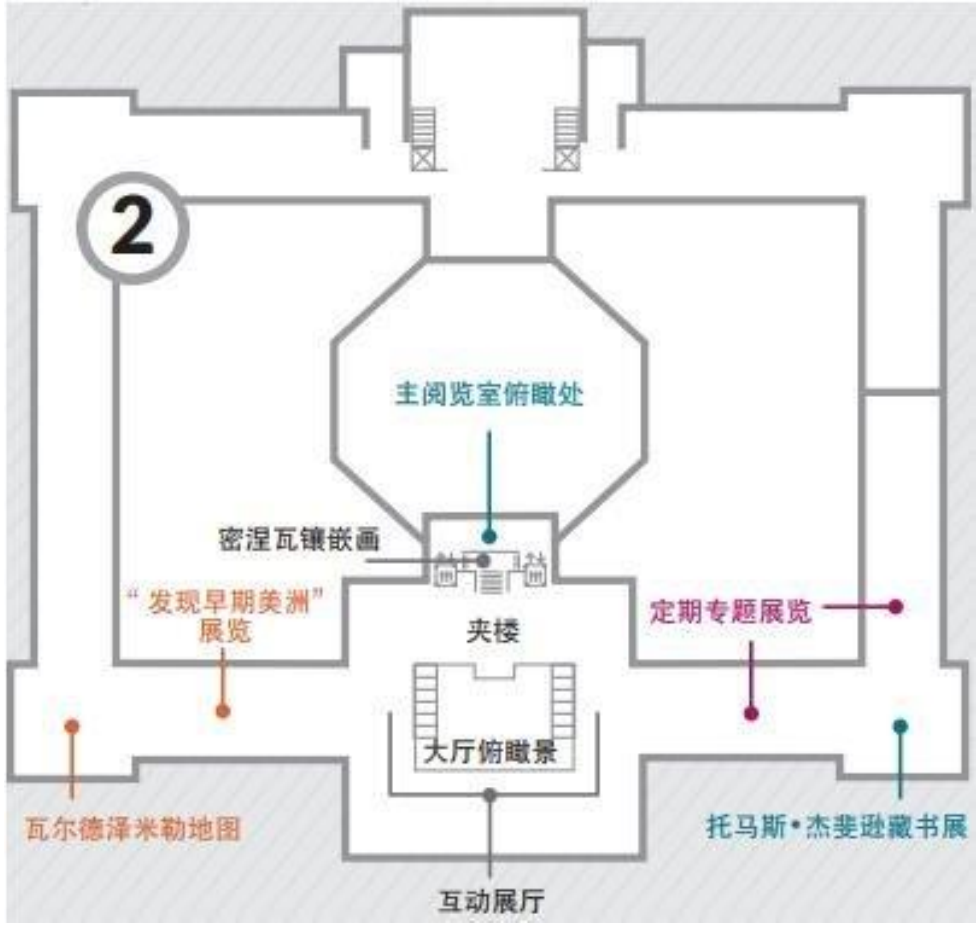

The Birth of the word “America”

Library of Congress, Washington, D.C

20:07
Constitution Ave NE
Northeast Dr
First St NE
A St NE
Supreme Court of the United States
国会大厦
United States Capitol
East Capitol St NE
Folger Shakespeare Library
入口在西侧，这里
Library of Congress
国会图书馆（杰弗逊大楼）
A St SE
Southeast Dr
Southwest Dr
Independence Ave SW
Independence Ave SE
Representative Sam Farr
Cannon House Office Building
James Madison Memorial Building
国会图书馆（麦迪逊大楼）
C St SE
The Spirit of Justice Park
Capitol South Metro
D St SW
D St SE
D St SE
D St SE

Hill附近

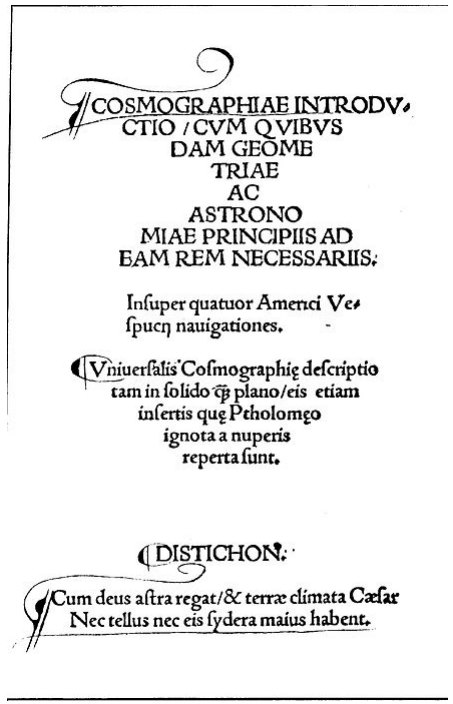

Exploring the Early Americas
December 12, 2007–Ongoing

Examine indigenous cultures, the drama of the encounters between Native Americans and Europeans, and the resulting changes caused by the meeting of the two worlds, which features selections from the Jay I. Kislak Collection. This exhibit also features Martin Waldseemüller's 1507 map of the world---the first on which the word “America” appears.

America's birth certificate; Geography and Map Division

COSMOGRAPHIAE INTRODV-
CTIO / CVM QVIBVS
DAM GEOME
TRIAE
AC
ASTRONO
MIAE PRINCIPIIS AD
EAM REM NECESSARIIS:

Insuper quatuor Amerci Vespuci nauigationes.

Vniuersalis Cosmographię descriptio tam in solido ꝙ plano/eis etiam insertis quę Ptholomęo ignota a nuperis
reperta sunt.

DISTICHON:

Cum deus astra regat/& terræ climata Cæsar
Nec tellus nec eis sydera maius habent.

Martin Waldseemüller
（1470-1520）
Cosmographiae Introductio （1507）

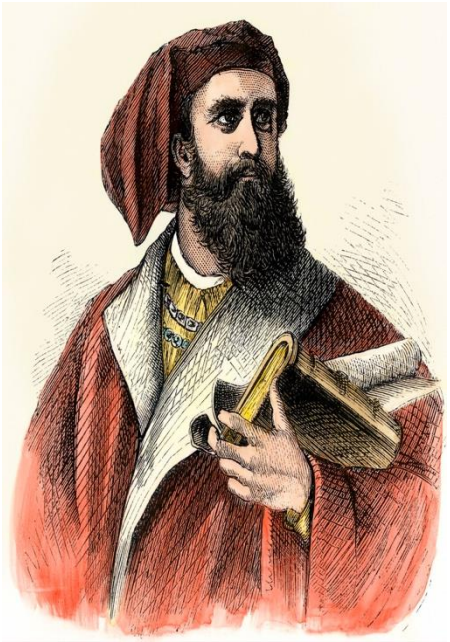

Americus Vespucius / Amerigo Vespucci
（1451-1512）
Italian navigator

Ptolemy's world map

Claudius Ptolemy
（c. 100 – c. 170 AD）

Marco Polo
（1254-1324）

Christopher Columbus
（1451-1506）

《宇宙图志》

Universalis Cosmographia*, （Universal Geography According to the Tradition of Ptolemy and the Contributions of Amerigo Vespucci and Others）Waldseemüller's 1507 world map which was the first to show the Americas separate from Asia

Colonial Hisotry (1565-1700)

英格兰的美洲殖民与中国的关系：16世纪白银危机

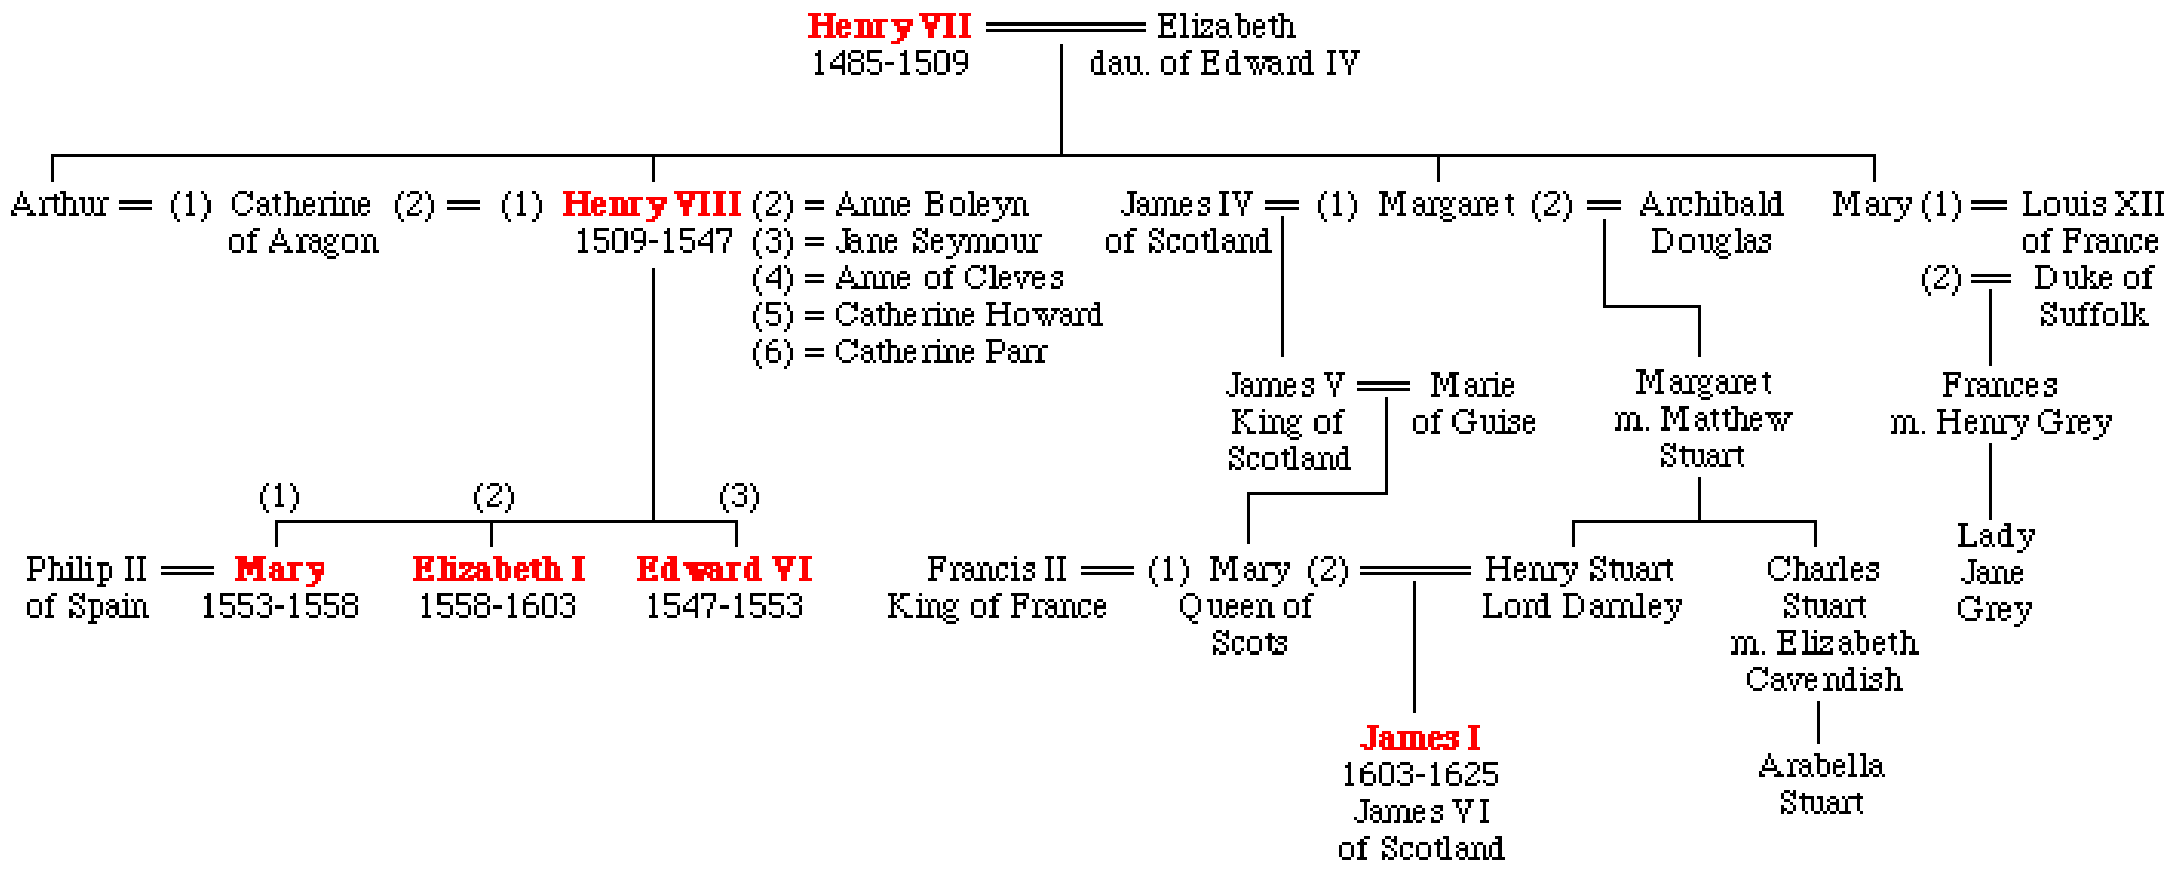

“南海一号”是南宋初期一艘在海上丝绸之路向外运送瓷器时失事沉没的木质古沉船，从泉州港驶出，沉没地点位于中国广东省（台山市海域），是国内发现的第一个沉船遗址，距今800多年。2007出水。

The House of Tudor

by Ed Stephan

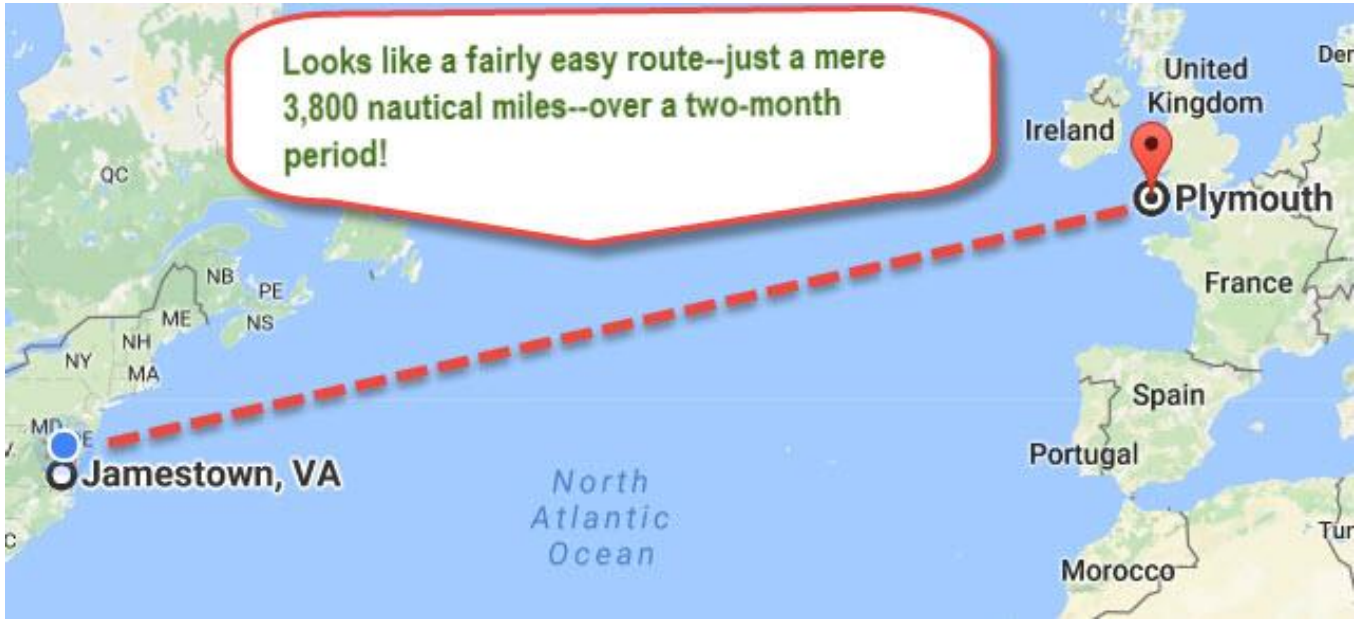

圣奥古斯丁

City of St. Augustine Florida

England---Virginia --- New England

13 colonies

17世纪初-18世纪中，建立组合成13殖民地

New England colonies:

1. Province of Massachusetts Bay, chartered as a royal colony in 1691:

Popham Colony, established in 1607; abandoned in 1608
Plymouth Colony, established in 1620; merged with Massachusetts Bay Colony in 1691
Province of Maine, patent issued in 1622 by Council for New England; patent reissued by Charles I in 1639; absorbed by Massachusetts Bay Colony by 1658 France
Massachusetts Bay Colony, established in 1629; merged with Plymouth Colony in 1691 from the Massachusett tribe of Native Americans, who lived in the Great Blue Hill region, south of Boston. The Indian term, roughly translated as, “at or about the Great Hill”.

New England colonies:

2. Province of New Hampshire, established in 1629; merged with Massachusetts Bay Colony in 1641; chartered as royal colony in 1679

3. Connecticut Colony, established in 1636; chartered as royal colony in 1662
Saybrook Colony, established in 1635; merged with Connecticut Colony in 1644
New Haven Colony, established in 1638; merged with Connecticut Colony in 1664 from the Mohegan-Pequot word that has been translated as "long tidal river" and "upon the long river"

4. Colony of Rhode Island chartered as royal colony in 1663
Providence Plantations established by Roger Williams in 1636
Portsmouth established in 1638 by John Clarke, William Coddington, and others
Newport established in 1639 after a disagreement and split among the settlers in Portsmouth
Warwick established in 1642 by Samuel Gorton
These four settlements merged into a single Royal colony in 1663
Dutch explorer Adrian Block named it "Roodt Eylandt" meaning "red island" in reference to the red clay that lined the shore.

Middle colonies:

5. Delaware Colony (before 1776, the Lower Counties on Delaware), established in 1664 as proprietary colony：In 1610 explorer Samuel Argall named the Delaware River and Bay for the governor of Virginia, Thomas West, Lord De La Warr. The state of Delaware takes its name from the river and bay.

6. Province of New York, established as a proprietary colony in 1664; chartered as royal colony in 1686; included in the Dominion of New England (1686–1689) Yorkshire，James II, duke of york

7. Province of New Jersey, established as a proprietary colony in 1664; chartered as a royal colony in 1702 Jersey
a. East Jersey, established in 1674; merged with West Jersey to re-form Province of New Jersey in 1702; included in the Dominion of New England
b. West Jersey, established in 1674; merged with East Jersey to re-form Province of New Jersey in 1702; included in the Dominion of New England

8. Province of Pennsylvania, established in 1681 as a proprietary colony； Penn's woods， William Penn

South colonies:

9. Colony and Dominion of Virginia, established in 1607 as a proprietary colony; chartered as a royal colony in 1624 (first crown colony) 伊丽莎白女王（1533-1603）

10. Province of Maryland, established 1632 as a proprietary colony
Province of Carolina, initial charter issued in 1629; initial settlements established after 1651; initial charter voided in 1660 by Charles II; rechartered as a proprietary colony in 1663. (Earlier, along the coast, the Roanoke Colony was established in 1585; re-established in 1587; and found abandoned in 1590.) The Carolina province was divided into separate proprietary colonies, north and south in 1712. 查理一世王后Henrietta Maria

11. Province of North Carolina, previously part of the Carolina province until 1712; chartered as a royal colony in 1729. Carolus being Latin for King Charles I of England

12. Province of South Carolina, previously part of the Carolina province until 1712; chartered as a royal colony in 1729

13. Province of Georgia, established as a proprietary colony in 1732; royal colony from 1752. King George II of Great Britain

Mason–Dixon line is seen as demarcating the North from the South in the U.S.

WEST
MIDWEST
NORTHEAST
SOUTH
Idaho Panhandle
Great Plains
The grasslands of the Great Plains—parts of North Dakota, South Dakota, Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma, Texas, New Mexico, Colorado, Wyoming, and Montana—are important for growing grain, raising cattle, and mining.
Great Lakes States
New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Michigan, Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin, and Minnesota border the five Great Lakes.
New England
Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Connecticut, and Rhode Island
Pacific Northwest
Washington, Oregon, Idaho, and western Montana
Wash.
Ore.
Ida.
Mont.
Wyo.
Minn.
N.D.
S.D.
Neb.
Kan.
Upper Peninsula
Mich.
Wis.
Iowa
Ill.
Ind.
Ohio
Mo.
Me.
Vt.
N.H.
N.Y.
Mass.
Conn.
R.I.
Pa.
N.J.
Mid-Atlantic States
Delaware, Maryland, New Jersey, and New York border the Atlantic Ocean, but Pennsylvania does not.
Rocky Mountain States
Idaho, Montana, Wyoming, Nevada, Utah, Colorado, Arizona, and New Mexico
Pacific States
Washington, Oregon, California, Alaska, and Hawaii border the Pacific Ocean.
Calif.
Nev.
Utah
Colo.
Ariz.
N.M.
Four Corners
The only place in the U.S. where four states—Arizona, New Mexico, Colorado, and Utah—come together.
The geographic center of all 50 states is located near Belle Fourche, South Dakota.
Nebraska Panhandle
The geographic center of the lower 48 states is located near Lebanon, Kansas.
Maryland Panhandle
Del.
Md.
The Mason-Dixon Line is the boundary that separates Pennsylvania from Maryland and part of West Virginia, as well as Maryland from Delaware. Before the Civil War, it symbolized the dividing line between free (Northern) states and slave (Southern) states.
West Virginia Panhandles
W. Va.
Va.
Washington, D.C., is a federal district, the site of the nation's capital.
Ky.
Tenn.
N.C.
S.C.
Ark.
Miss.
Ala.
Ga.
Appalachia
Although the Appalachian Mountains stretch from Alabama to Canada, Appalachia as a region generally refers to the mountainous parts of Maryland, Virginia, Kentucky, North and South Carolina, Tennessee, Georgia, Alabama, and all of West Virginia. Appalachia is often thought of, many say wrongly, as an isolated and impoverished region.
Oklahoma Panhandle
Texas Panhandle
Okla.
Tex.
La.
Southeast
Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, Louisiana, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee, Virginia, and West Virginia
Florida Panhandle
Fla.
South Atlantic States
Florida, Georgia, South Carolina, North Carolina, Virginia, Maryland, and Delaware border the Atlantic Ocean.
Alaska is located northwest of the lower 48 states and west of Canada. It is part of continental North America.
Alaska
CANADA
Alaska Panhandle
Located in the Pacific Ocean, Hawaii is the only state that is not part of continental North America.
Hawaii
N
W
E
S
"The Lower 48" are the 48 contiguous states located south of Canada. Not included are Alaska, Hawaii, or Washington, D.C.
Southwest
Arizona and New Mexico, and parts of California, Nevada, Utah, Colorado, Oklahoma, and Texas
Gulf States
Texas, Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama, and Florida border the Gulf of Mexico.

Westward Movement / Westward Colonization

informal empire

How to Hide an Empire:A History of the Greater United States
Daniel Immerwahr
2019

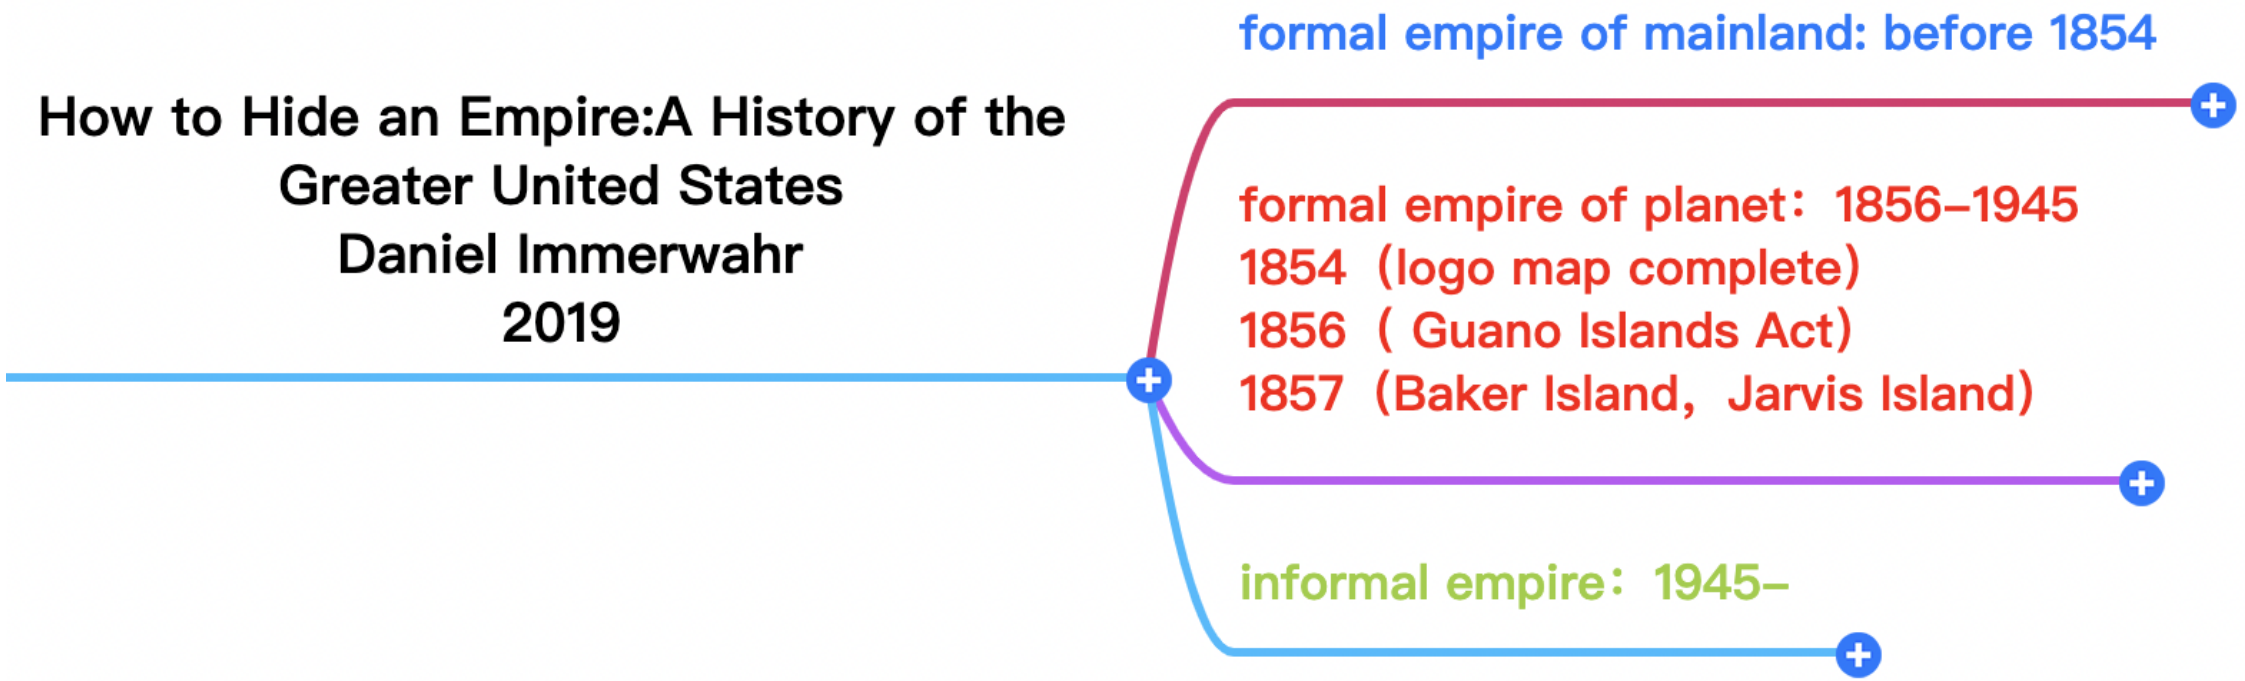

They told you it was this:

But it's this:

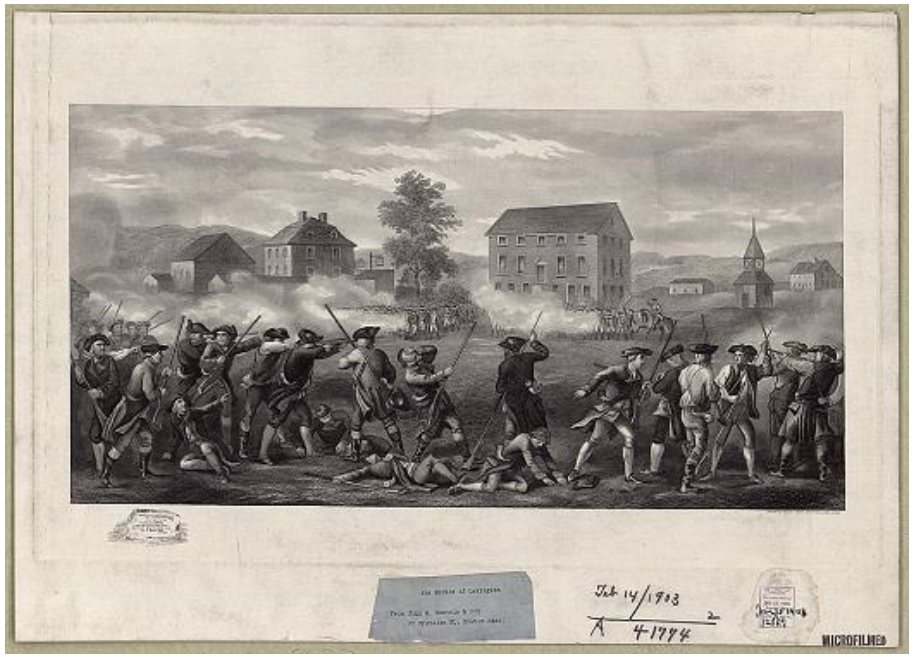

informal empire

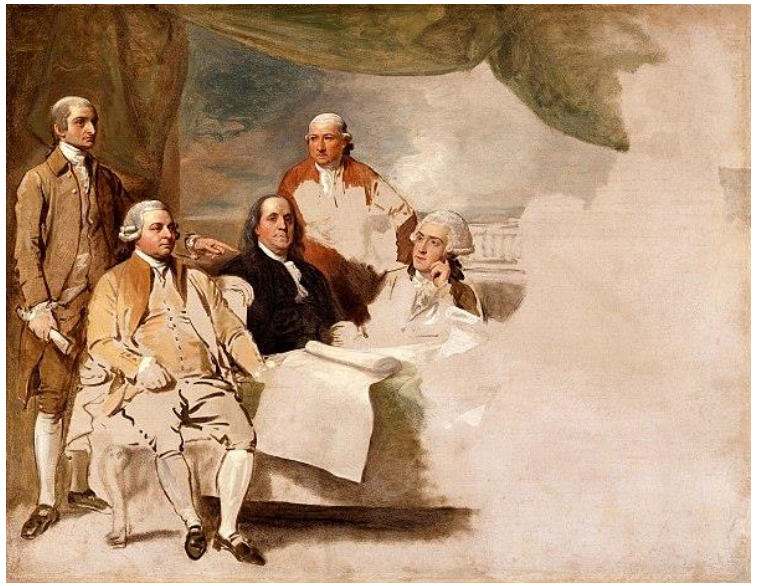

Name an American writer and match with the list

1	引论
2	美国殖民地时期文学
3	美国殖民地时期文学
4	革命理性时期文学 (Declaration)
5	革命理性时期文学
6	浪漫主义文学 (RIP)
7	浪漫主义文学
8	浪漫主义文学
9	浪漫主义文学
10	现实主义文学 (Beast)
11	现实主义文学
12	现实主义文学
13	现实主义文学
14	现代主义文学
15	现代主义文学

American Revolutionary War/American War of Independence

On April 19, 1775, British and American soldiers exchanged fire in the Massachusetts towns of Lexington and Concord.

Treaty of Paris*, September 3, 1783

Treaty of Paris, by Benjamin West (1783)
The British delegation refused to pose, and the painting was never completed.

Second Continental Congress

provisional government/interim government/emergency government/transitional government

The Lee Resolution (also known as The Resolution for Independence) was the formal assertion passed by the Second Continental Congress on July 2, 1776 which resolved that the Thirteen Colonies in America were "free and independent States", separated from the British Empire and creating what became the United States of America.

The resolution is named for Richard Henry Lee of Virginia

John Adams wrote his wife Abigail on July 3

The second day of July, 1776, will be the most memorable epoch in the history of America. I am apt to believe that it will be celebrated by succeeding generations as the great anniversary festival. It ought to be commemorated as the day of deliverance, by solemn acts of devotion to God Almighty. It ought to be solemnized with pomp and parade, with shows, games, sports, guns, bells, bonfires, and illuminations, from one end of this continent to the other, from this time forward forever more.

IN CONGRESS. JULY 4, 1776.

The unanimous Declaration of the thirteen united States of America,

The Declaration of Independence is the formal document which officially announced and explained the Lee Resolution, approved on July 4, 1776.

Trumbull's Declaration of Independence

Why Thomas Jefferson?

When he came to Congress in 1775, "he brought with him a reputation for literature, science, and a happy talent for composition. Writings of his were handed about remarkable for the peculiar felicity of expression.

---John Adams, Works of John Adams, II, 514.

The ostensible purpose of the Declaration was, therefore, to lay before the world the causes which impelled the colonies to separate from Great Britain.

1 When in the Course of human events, it becomes necessary for one people to dissolve the political bands which have connected them with another, and to assume among the powers of the earth, the separate and equal station to which the Laws of Nature and of Nature's God entitle them, a decent respect to the opinions of mankind requires that they should declare the causes which impel them to the separation.

The ostensible purpose of the Declaration was, therefore, to lay before the world the causes which impelled the colonies to separate from Great Britain.

2 We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness.That to secure these rights, Governments are instituted among Men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed, That whenever any Form of Government becomes destructive of these ends, it is the Right of the People to alter or to abolish it, and to institute new Government, laying its foundation on such principles and organizing its powers in such form, as to them shall seem most likely to effect their Safety and Happiness.

2 Prudence, indeed, will dictate that Governments long established should not be changed for light and transient causes; and accordingly all experience hath shewn, that mankind are more disposed to suffer, while evils are sufferable, than to right themselves by abolishing the forms to which they are accustomed. But when a long train of abuses and usurpations, pursuing invariably the same Object evinces a design to reduce them under absolute Despotism, it is their right, it is their duty, to throw off such Government, and to provide new Guards for their future security.---Such has been the patient sufferance of these Colonies; and such is now the necessity which constrains them to alter their former Systems of Government. The history of the present King of Great Britain is a history of repeated injuries and usurpations, all having in direct object the establishment of an absolute Tyranny over these States. To prove this, let Facts be submitted to a candid world.

3 He has endeavoured to prevent the population of these States; for that purpose obstructing the Laws for Naturalization of Foreigners; refusing to pass others to encourage their migrations hither, and raising the conditions of new Appropriations of Lands.

Interpretation:

The British government feared that such encouragement would reduce the population of England and lure away workers who would otherwise be employed in its domestic industries.

IN CONGRESS. JULY 4, 1776.

The unanimous Declaration of the thirteen united States of America,

[...]They too have been deaf to the voice of justice and of consanguinity.

[...]

The 56 signatures on the Declaration appear in the positions indicated:

[...]

An Intended Omission

Why there is no mention of the British Parliament but only the king?

Two lines of logos/reasoning

1. natural rights philosophy 自然权利哲学

2. constitutional theory of the British empire 英帝国的构成理论

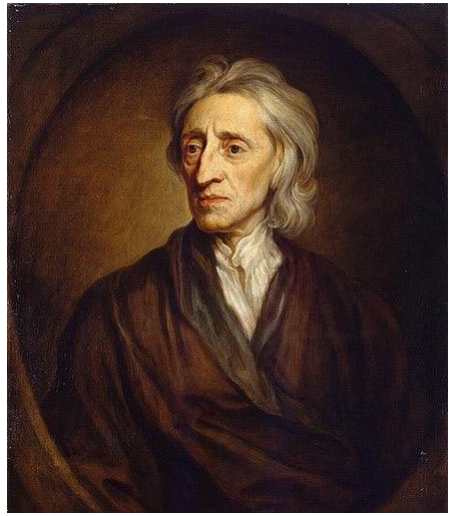

“Pickering's observations, and Mr. Adams' in addition, that it contained no new ideas, that it is a commonplace compilation, its sentiments hacknied in Congress for two years before … may all be true. Of that I am not to be the judge. Richard H. Lee charged it as copied from Locke's treatise on Government.… I know only that I turned to neither book nor pamphlet while writing it. I did not consider it as any part of my charge to invent new ideas altogether and to offer no sentiment which had ever been expressed before.”
--- The Writings of Thomas Jefferson (Ed. 1869), VII, 304.

Not to find out new principles, or new arguments, never before thought of, not merely to say things which had never been said before; but to place before mankind the common sense of the subject, in terms so plain and firm as to command their assent.… Neither aiming at originality of principles or sentiments, nor yet copied from any particular and previous writing, it was intended to be an expression of the American mind.… All its authority rests then on the harmonizing sentiments of the day, whether expressed in conversation, in letters, printed essays, or the elementary books of public right, as Aristotle, Cicero, Locke, Sidney, etc.
--- Ibid., 407.

Though I have said above, Chap. II. That all men by nature are equal, I cannot be supposed to understand all sorts of equality: age or virtue may give men a just precedency

For the people are very seldom or never scrupulous or nice in the point or questioning of prerogative whilst it is in any tolerable degree employed for the use it was meant- that is, for the good of the people, and not manifestly against it.

---John Locke's Second Treatise of Government, 1689

John Locke 1632-1702

John Locke vs. Robert Filmer

First Treatise of Government vs. Patriarcha

an apology for the Revolution of 1688 defence of the divine right of kings

a new version of the compact theory

Jefferson used the compact theory to justify revolution just as Locke did.

John Milton（1608-1704）: Original Compact Theory JIXU 一二班

"I made him just and right, sufficient to have stood, though free to fall."
--- Paradise Lost， 1667

People had a compact with God which reserved to them the right to rebel when kings ruled unrighteously.

Why was Locke/Jefferson not satisfied with this version?

God had been withdrawing

Since the later seventeenth century, God had been withdrawing from immediate contact with men, and had become, in proportion as he receded into the dim distance, no more than the Final Cause, or Great Contriver, or Prime Mover of the universe; and as such was conceived as exerting his power and revealing his will indirectly through his creation rather than directly by miraculous manifestation or through inspired books.

Man---Nature---God

In the eighteenth century as never before, 'Nature' had stepped in between man and God; so that there was no longer any way to know God's will except by discovering the 'laws' of Nature.

The ostensible purpose of the Declaration was, therefore, to lay before the world the causes which impelled the colonies to separate from Great Britain.

1 When in the Course of human events, it becomes necessary for one people to dissolve the political bands which have connected them with another, and to assume among the powers of the earth, the separate and equal station to which the Laws of Nature and of Nature's God entitle them, a decent respect to the opinions of mankind requires that they should declare the causes which impel them to the separation.

Aquinas, Natural Law, Eternal Law(full mind of God)

13th century: Natural Law was part of the mind of God which man could discover by using his reason

"an inclination in man to the good, according to the rational nature which is proper to him; as, for example, man has a natural inclination to know the truth about God, and to live in society."

--- Summa Theologica (Theological Summary) I-II, Q. 94, Art. 2 (Pegis, pp. 774-775)

Protestant Reformation: Luther, Calvin→ to diminish the authority of the Church

Scientific Revolution: Kepler, Galileo → "laws" of God's universe

Descartes → Je pense, donc je suis./ "I think, therefore, I am." --- Discourse on the Method greater confidence that the infinite mind of God and the finite mind of man were one and the same thing

18th century deification of Nature:dimiss the Bible and drop the concept of Eternal Law altogether

18th century deification of Nature in Science

Isaac Newton: prism → light; telescope + mathematics→ gravity → law of universal gravitation

"What the human spirit owes to Newton […] is the rapprochement effected by this great man between God and nature. Henceforth it will be possible for natural science, that is to say physics, not only to struggle against theology, but to supplant it. The contradictory Gods of the revealed religions will be replaced by a new idea, that of a being who is known to us through his works, and to whom we can attain only through science."

--- M. Leon Bloch La philosophie de Newton

18th century deification of Nature in Political Philosophy

John Locke

Q: What kind of government that is … where one man … may do to all his subjects whatever he pleases, without the least liberty to any one to question or control those who execute his pleasure?

A: ?

18th century deification of Nature in Political Philosophy

John Locke

We must consider "What state all men are naturally in, and that is, a state of perfect freedom to order their actions and dispose of their possessions and persons, as they think fit, within the bounds of the law of nature, without asking leave, or depending upon the leave of any other man. A state also of equality, wherein all power and jurisdiction is reciprocal, no one having more than another."

--- "Of Civil Government," Bk. II, sec. 4; Works (ed. 1812)

18th century deification of Nature in Political Philosophy

John Locke

"The state of nature has a law to govern it, which obliges every one: and reason, which is that law, teaches all mankind, who will but consult it, that being all equal and independent, no one ought to harm another in his life, health, liberty, or possessions.…"

"In transgressing the law of nature, the offender declares himself to live by another rule than that of reason and common equity, which is that measure God has set to the actions of men.…"

"A criminal, who having renounced reason, the common rule and measure God hath given to mankind, hath, by the unjust violence and slaughter he hath committed on one, declared war against all mankind."

---Ibid., sec. 6, 8, 11.

18th century deification of Nature in Political Philosophy

John Locke

Q: What kind of government that is … where one man … may do to all his subjects whatever he pleases, without the least liberty to any one to question or control those who execute his pleasure?

A: Such a government is a bad government; since governments exist for men, not men for governments, all governments derive their just powers from the consent of the governed.

Two lines of logos/reasoning

1. natural rights philosophy 自然权利哲学

2. constitutional theory of the British empire 英帝国的构成理论

Constitutional theory of the British empire

"I am not yet master of the idea these […] writers have of the relation between Britain and her colonies. [...] The more I have thought and read on the subject, the more I find myself confirmed in opinion, that no middle ground can be well maintained, I mean not clearly with intelligible arguments. Something might be made of either of the extremes: that Parliament has a power to make all laws for us, or that it has a power to make no laws for us; and I think the arguments for the latter more numerous and weighty, than those for the former. Supposing that doctrine established, the colonies would then be so many separate[…]"

laws: The Sugar Act, Stamp Act, Townshend Acts→1773Boston Tea Party

--- Benjamin Franklin, 1768, Writings of Benjamin Franklin (Smyth ed.), V, 115.

Constitutional theory of the British empire

"That the colonies originally were constituted distinct States, and intended to be continued such, is clear to me from a thorough consideration of their original Charters, and the whole conduct of the Crown and nation towards them until the Restoration. Since that period, the Parliament here has usurped an authority of making laws for them, which before it had not. We have for some time submitted to that usurpation [...] in truth they have no such right, and their claim is founded only in usurpation, the several states having equal rights and liberties, and being only connected, as England and Scotland were before the union, by having one common sovereign, the King.

--- Benjamin Franklin, 1768, Writings of Benjamin Franklin (Smyth ed.), V, 260.

The Unsaid in Declaration

The British Parliament, which is their legislature, has no authority over us, any more than our legislatures have authority over them. We do not mention the British Parliament in our Declaration of Independence because we are not declaring independence of an authority to which we have never been subject. We are declaring ourselves independent of the king, because it is to the king only that we have ever been subject; and in dissolving our connection with the king we separate from the British empire, because it is only through the king that we have ever had any connection with the British empire. We separate from the empire, it is because the king has attempted to exert such compulsion, and has exhibited a determination to subject us to his arbitrary power. Our natural rights, which are inalienably possessed of, are now being seriousley offended by him.

Further Reading

Carl L. Becker.The Declaration of Independence: A Study in the History of Political Ideas.

Benjamin Franklin. Autobiography
Thomas Paine. Common Sense